Forecast For West Midlands
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Wednesday 27 Jan 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
A largely dry and bright day. Feeling less cold.

Today:
A largely dry day with variable amounts of cloud allowing some bright or sunny spells to break through. Feeling less cold, with light winds that begin to strengthen later as outbreaks of rain arrive. Maximum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Tonight:
A wet night as a band of rain, heavy and persistent at times, moves over the region from the south west. Breezy, but remaining rather mild. Minimum temperature 5 deg C (41 deg F).

Thursday:
A wet morning as rain lingers across the region. This should slowly clear northeastwards later, leaving a dry afternoon for most. Feeling mild, with winds easing. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Starting wet on Friday but becoming drier and brighter. Sunny and dry into Saturday and Sunday, with overnight frosts. Rain and a risk of snow arriving late Sunday. Cold throughout.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.